Hello, Central; kindly take a few subscribers off this line.

The base ball team will soon begin its Daley work again. Success to it.

The groundwork for a deal of good roads ought to have been laid as the result of the Washington county meeting held yesterday.

The heavens are weeping copiously nowadays, but for what sins the Bennington Banner does not know. However, it thinks the weeping is in keeping with the Lenten season.

It was proven beyond peradventure at West Rutland Monday that two trains going in opposite direction cannot occupy the same rails. It has been proved time and time again, but in spite of all the warnings trainmen persist in trying the same experiment. Five persons will pay the penalty for Monday's attempt at controverting that conclusion.

That was a delightful picture which ex-Mayor Gordon drew before the county road commissioners at Montpelier yesterday, a farmer whizzing to the creamery with milk, whirling to market with produce and then whizzing back again, and all in an automobile. And yet it is possible that some farmers, when the prejudice against the pesky thing has abated, will be seen whizzing, whirling and whisking just like a lawyer.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

The abiding faith which Governor Bell has in the state of Vermont he is not backward in telling whenever the opportunity offers. At every gathering inside the state and outside, maple sugar party or more sumptuous banquet, in private conversation or in public speech, at gatherings of Vermonters or of "rank outsiders," it is generally the dominant note. Unconsciously, perhaps, the governor makes an excellent advertiser of the state. And in so doing he sets a fair example for the remainder of the citizens of the state to follow. A village, a city or a state is very much like the possessor of property when it comes down to the real business side of the proposition. It is difficult to sell property in which the seller has no confidence or about which he has little of good to say. That business man who decries the goods he wishes to dispose of would be set down at once as lacking business principles and would be booked for failure. That man, too, who has goods to sell and who fails to announce to the people that which he has for sale would be considered as belonging to a back era in business activity. It is the seller who professes confidence in his wares and who tells that confidence, that succeeds in attracting purchasers.

In a manner the state of Vermont is like the man who has property to dispose of. The property is in the abstract. It consists of opportunities for gaining a livelihood, a competence, it may be, and in any case a chance to spend one's days under conditions that are generally satisfactory and favorable. In disposing of these "wares" the state benefits indirectly through its citizens. And like the prudent business man the state, through its citizens, should present to possible purchasers the best that can be said of the propositions. We do not take it that Governor Bell is going about telling of his confidence in Vermont primarily with a view to advertising the state, but it must be inferred that Vermont is really the gainer by his action. Let others, whenever the opportunity presents itself, be as free as the governor to express the same confidence.

Timely and Valuable Suggestions.

Many people, especially women who lead closely confined domestic lives, suffer from what in general terms is called "nervousness." Among all forms of treatment none has even approached in success the intelligent use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y., which promotes an easy and natural action of the digestive organs and imparts tone to the nervous system.

ALFRED SPEER'S SURPRISE.

Well Known Business Man Tells of Peculiar Experience.

Few business men are better known throughout the country than Alfred Speer of Passaic, N. J. Although he is over eighty-one years of age and the head of a large concern, as well as the editor of the "Passaic Item," yet he found time to write the following letter, hoping that it would be of interest and benefit to our readers:

"To the Editor:—

"I cannot keep from expressing my surprise at the wonderful relief and benefit I derived from the use of Hyomei. For some years past I have been a victim to nasal and throat catarrh, and during that time have expended a great many dollars to specialists, and had my throat sprayed, washed and smoked week after week. The first time I used Hyomei I was surprised at the change it brought. This was a few months ago, and I have used it occasionally since. It makes me so well that I often forget and neglect its use for several days, but each time when I breathe it the hawking and discharge cease, and it is wonderful how it acts.

"I am over eighty-one years of age, and careful not to praise anything until I know what I am about.

"Respectfully yours,

"Alfred Speer."

The complete Hyomei outfit, including the inhaler, costs but $1.00, while extra bottles sell for 50 cents. You run no risk whatever in buying it, as Rickert & Wells sell it under their personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. Ask them to show you a copy of their guarantee.
